1	Choose an editorial from the opinion page of a newspaper (Hindi/English). Underline the words that are denotative; circle the words that are connotative. Discuss the impact of the connotative words and whether the combination of denotative and connotative words is effective.	Critical thinking, Reading & Comprehension	Appreciation and understanding of concepts and problems in communication.
2	Find an advertisement online for a position in which you have some interest. (As a last resort you may write your own ad if you can't find an appropriate one, but it must be realistic). Write a cover letter applying for that position. Be sure that your assertions about your self are true, are backed up by adequate concrete evidence, and are clearly linked to attributes required for the job. Since correct spelling, punctuation and grammar are crucial to projecting a credible image of yourself,	Practical	Learn and understand basics of writing a sellable cover letter. Learn to review her/his cover letter in terms of: 1) Strategy: Is the letter appropriate for the job described 2) Content: Does the introduction provide an overview of the contents of the letter? Have you provided pay special attention to those aspects of the letter. (There will be a peer editing session for the cover letter). Note: please submit the ad with the final draft of the cover letter. If you have a resume, give that as well – it will help the class to judge and learn if you have overlooked anything that might be a good selling point.		concrete evidence to back up your claims? Have you stressed what you can do for the company rather than what the company can do for you? Does your last paragraph outline" next steps" as appropriate. 3) Style & Tone: Are paragraph coherent and sentences concise? 4) Mechanics: Is letter free from spelling, punctuation, and grammatical mistakes? 5) Format and design: Have you used the correct business letter format?

3	Apply 03 or 04 of the seven 'C's discussed, as a criteria for evaluating several different kind of publications.(1) Do your analysis of one of the publication/document. (2) Have another member of the class analyze the same document. (3) Compare results before reporting to the class on where you agree or where you disagree. You may select your document from the following list or select one on your own: An annual report of a company An assume as Business World A story from a popular magazine A letter from the chairperson in a company A chapter/topic from the text book provided from book bank.	Understanding reasons of poor writing.	Applications of seven 'C's in making your communication effective.
